The Royal School Cavan is a Christian Co-Educational Secondary Boarding School in Cavan Town. It was founded in 1611 by James 1.

The building is situated on its own grounds (20 acres). Pupils follow a complete Junior Certificate Syllabus and Leaving Certificate Syllabus to Higher levels in a comprehensive range of subjects under the direction of a staff of graduate specialist teachers.

The Junior Certificate is a three year programme while the leaving certificate is a two year programme. Pupils may only repeat any of these years if the guidelines set out by the Department of Education and Science are followed.

Between Junior Certificate and First Year Leaving Certificate we run a compulsory Transition Year with a practical emphasis which includes work experience, mock interviews, career guidance, subjects in a modular form as well as maintaining the traditional academic disciplines. This year gives pupils an educational experience without the pressure of state examinations. The School is certainly still small in terms of numbers.

Yet despite this it continues to enjoy achievement and success in a wide number of fields, be it academically in terms of examination results, or in other areas, such as the Coca-Cola 'Form and Fusion' competition or Young Enterprise competition. Tuition is provided in Piano, Recorder etc if required. Pupils may follow the examinations for piano, recorder etc. as set out by The Royal Irish Academy if they wish. Although desirable, it is not necessary to have studied the piano before starting piano lessons in the school. Music is also a curricular examination option to Junior and Leaving Certificate.

The entire School is networked allowing users to access their work at any PC throughout the school. The School has a filtered broadband Internet system, allowing for 'safe surfing' at all times. Keyboarding, word processing, databases and spreadsheets are some of the topics covered during class time and transition year pupils use the PC's to create Curriculum Vitae's for their work experience and they also take a web design as one of their transition year modules.
