Wilson's Hospital School is the Church of Ireland Diocesan secondary school of Meath and Kildare. The School is coeducational and multi-denominational, and welcomes pupils from overseas.

It is a seven-day boarding school, operating a five-day teaching week. This allows boarders the option of returning home at weekends or remaining at school to avail of the weekend programme. Day pupils are drawn from surrounding areas and participate fully in the life of the school. There is an extensive range of subjects up to higher leaving certificate standard. The school is committed to top academic achievement in the context of an all-round education.

The accreditation to the City & Guilds of London Institute provides students with the opportunity to attain internationally recognized qualifications in Information Technology modules. The spiritual development of the students is pivotal to the school's ethos. Daily assembly features an act of worship with Bible reading and prayer. All boarders attend Chapel Services on Sunday night and all classes are taught Religions Education. Students participate in many services throughout the year such as Harvest Thanksgiving, Christmas Carol Service and Confirmation. The school is proud of its Church of Ireland heritage. Students of all faiths are welcome, providing there is an acceptance of the school's ethos Class start at 9:00am and conclude 4:00pm. The main recreational time is between 4:00pm and 6:00pm. Wednesday afternoon is reserved for sports and other nonacademic activities and classes conclude at 1:15pm. The school offers an extensive range of extra curricular activities including team and individual sports, as well as non-sporting activities such as drama, first aid and GAISCE (The President's Award). Wilson's teams have been regular prize-winners in competitions involving web-design, history and European knowledge, to name a few.

Wilson's Hospital is built in a Palladian style to designs by John Pentland between 1759 and 1761. It represents one of the finest and most sophisticated mid-Georgian buildings constructed outside of Dublin and has been recently modernized.

The Structure

Wilson's Hospital School offers a unique learning environment. Every pupil adds to the atmospheres of mutual respect and the common good. Each day is a celebration of learning and community. Days are structured and rules are clear. Our rules provide for sound discipline that protects the individual and nurtures community spirit. Indeed the Wilson's spirit is better described as a family, where the successes and trials of one are shared by all.

Wilson's Hospital School seeks to provide an education that is academic, practical, physical, moral and spiritual. In pursuit of these goals the School provides a range of practical and academic subjects. An atmosphere conducive to study is provided, with an insistence on the highest standards of effort. A wide-ranging sports programme, encouraging all to partake, but not compelling, is available. Suitably qualified persons are employed to take care of health. Nutritious and hygienically prepared meals are provided.

There are clean and adequate levels of accommodation and sanitary facilities.

A Chaplain celebrates service in accordance with the rites of the Church of Ireland. An ethos of Christian care for, and between all, is cultivated.
